THE CONFESSION OF 1967

(Excerpts)

Jesus Christ is God with man.
He is the eternal Son of the Father,
    who became man and lived among us
    to fulfill the work of reconciliation.
He is present in the church by the power of the Holy Spirit
    to continue and complete his mission.
Therefore the church calls men to be reconciled
    to God and to one another.

To be reconciled to God is to be sent into the world
    as his reconciling community.
This community, the church universal,
    is entrusted with God's message of reconciliation
and shares his labor of healing the enmities
    which separate men from God and from each other.
Christ has called the church to this mission
    and given it the gift of the Holy Spirit.
The church maintains continuity
    with the apostles and with Israel
    by faithful obedience to his call.

The life, death, resurrection, and promised coming of Jesus Christ has set the pattern for the church's mission.
His life as man involves the church in the common life of men.
His service to men commits the church
    to work for every form of human well-being.
His suffering makes the church sensitive to all the sufferings of mankind
    so that it sees the face of Christ
    in the faces of men in every kind of need.
His crucifixion discloses to the church
    God's judgment on man's inhumanity to man and the awful consequences of its own complicity in injustice.
In the power of the risen Christ and the hope of his coming,
    the church sees the promise of God's renewal
    of man's life in society
    and of God's victory over all wrong.
